

Frontier Airlines Elects 3 New Men to its Directorate

Denver, June 1951

Three new directors were elected to the board of directors at Frontier Airlines and one director was re-elected at the annual stockholders meeting held here yesterday. President H. S. Darr of Chicago and other officers were re-elected. James A. Murphy, Phoenix, Arizona was named assistant to the president. In his annual report, Darr said that in the year since Frontier was formed by consolidating Challenge and Monarch Air Lines and Arizona Airways, all flight equipment has been standardized. He said most routes are running close to capacity.

The new directors, all from Denver are C. A. Myhre, Donald A Duff and L. W. Linville. Willian Felton of Salt Lake City, whose term expired, was re-elected. Directors whose terms continue are Darr; Emil N. Levin, Chicago; Glenn C. Taylor and Del E. Webb, Phoenix, Ariz.; Ray M. Wilson, F W. Bonfils and Fred Manning, all of Denver, and Walter Walker, Grand Junction. Colo.
