I'm so sorry to hear of your loss. Sally and I grew up on the same block of Drury for our entire childhood. Her dad, John and mine, Sal, sat on their front porches (across the street from each other) and talked on the phone late into the evenings when they couldn't sleep. I fondly remember talking to Sally about her new crush' on Terry so many years ago.

God Speed my childhood friend

As her cousin I was fortunate to spend many hours of fun and adventure as kids in Northeast. We were the same age and had a similar sense of humor as we tested our parent's patience. It was a simple time in those days and that is how I will remember Sally. My love and condolences go out to her family.
