Tonight my heart and the hearts of my family were broken. A husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather and friend passed away before midnight tonight. Cliff Brown went to be with his Lord just before midnight. Those of you who know our family knew that he was ill for a long time. We cherish every second we shared with him and will miss him terribly. Services will be announced later and will post for all the friends and distant family that would like to be with us to say goodbye.
