Final Update on Ed

We met with the Trama Team on Wed. They have tried multiple drugs to control the seizures, but that was not happening. He had been put back on the ventilator and sedated on Sunday so his brain could rest.

They had done everything they could, but nothing was working. He had brain damage from the stroke and brain damage from all the seizures.

There was no chance of any recovery so we made that awful, difficult decision to take him off the ventilator and see what he could do on his own.

He took 2 breaths and he was gone.
